National Conference for Community and Justice

Dear ANYTOWNers,

The National Conference for Community and Justice is pleased to announce that it is accepting nominations for the 2012 Youth Human Relations Award! Each year, NCCJ of CT and WMA awards one or two young people from Connecticut AND Western Mass, who have distinguished themselves by exemplifying the principals of NCCJ in their daily lives. Since 2002, 22 amazing youth have received this competitive award for taking their ANYTOWN learnings back to their homes, schools, and communities by creating positive change. The awards are presented at our awards banquet to be held in April and June of 2012 in front of community leaders, business partners, and many members of the NCCJ family. This banquet is also a time when we celebrate the success of our programs including ANYTOWN, BRIDGES, and Youth Action Coalition. This has been a great year so far with many youth involved in passionate campaigns for change in their schools. NCCJ is excited to celebrate some of these youth for their hard work, dedication, and commitment to bringing social change.

The nomination process is very easy and you may nominate yourself! Simply fill out the attached questionnaire and send it to Muneer Panjwani at mpanjwani@nccj.org by January 16TH, 2012. After a careful review of nominees by a team of NCCJ staff and board members, the finalists will be contacted for an interview by January 14th, 2012. The two winners (one from CT and one from Western MA) will be chosen by end of January, 2012.

Here is a list of characteristics that past winners have had and what the Youth Award Committee looks for in a strong candidate. NCCJ Youth Human Relations Award Nominee is:

- A past ANYTOWN delegate and/or staff member.
- A leader in their school and/or community. Community can be as small as your home, and as large as the world. It can be your school, your faith community, your neighborhood, your town, your state, etc.
- Someone who practices the following ethical principals in their daily lives:
  - Respect and caring for others
  - Open-mindedness
  - Not just tolerates, but celebrates differences
  - Leads by example
  - Committed in their fight for human rights and dignity
  - Believes that oppression of anyone is an oppression of everyone.
- Active in organizations or student clubs that combat racism, sexism, heterosexim, ableism, ageism, faith based oppression and classism.
- Someone who contributes their time to volunteer for their school and/or community for positive change.
- Someone who has worked on action projects in their schools to create any kind of positive change.
- Between the ages of 14 and 25.

The NCCJ Youth Human Relations Award does not require that nominees have ALL the characteristics listed above. A strong nominee is someone who shows sincere commitment to making their communities bias and bigotry free. If you are or someone you know is an ideal candidate for this award, please fill out the short questionnaire and email it to mpanjwani@nccj.org by January 16th, 2012. Please remember to proof-read your nomination form and include as much detail as possible.

Best of luck!
